

Castro Says Cuban Boat Fires at Sub

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro said today a Cuban coastguard boat fired on a U.S. submarine in Cuban waters eight days ago. He accused American warships of operating without lights near the coast in violation of international agreements.

In a midnight TV speech Castro claimed the coast guard vessel opened up on the sub with machineguns about 10 p.m. May 6 off Matanzas.

A Cuban Navy ship joined in, he said, and pursued the submarine for about 30 miles but the latter "sped north swiftly with her lights out."

The fiery prime minister cited nine instances of U.S. Navy vessels being sighted near Cuba's coast between May 6 and 11.

Reading from a Cuban Navy report, Castro also charged that the U.S. light cruiser Norfolk violated Cuba's territorial waters by coming inside the three-mile limit.

The American craft, the report said, was operating "in blackout in violation of international agreements."

(U.S. Navy headquarters in Washington had no immediate comment on Castro's charges).

The prime minister identified some of the American warships cited in the navy report. They included the Norfolk, the submarine Barracuda, a frigate and the destroyer The Sullivan S. He added that The Sullivan S. had been seen off Cuba's coasts many times.

"These ships navigate our waters with lights out as in times of war," Castro asserted.

The Norfolk was sighted at about 1 a. m. May 11, he said, within 2½ miles of Cayo Blanco, a small key off the Varadero Beach resort about 75 miles north-east of Havana.

The United States has been operating the big 100-million-dollar "Guantanamo naval base" in southeast Cuba under perpetual treaty since 1903. The base is capable of handling the largest American surface ships and the fastest naval jets.

Many military sea transports put into Guantanamo nowadays to carry the 7,000 Americans who man the base off on leaves. Leaves are taken outside Cuba since the band was placed off limits to all U. S. personnel.

Powers Sold Out by Agent, Is Report

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Daily News said in a copy-right story today that American pilot Francis G. Powers was "sold out" and that a manhunt has been launched for the agent who did it.

The News said Powers was a sitting duck from the time he left his home base in Turkey and that Soviet radar tracked him all the way.

The article, a Washington dispatch by the newspaper's military editor, Jerry Greene, said that Powers had an engine flameout above 70,000 feet and descended to 37,000 feet in an effort to restart the engine.

But Powers was unable to restart it and was instructed by radio to bail out and blow up the aircraft. Obviously, said the News, these orders either were not received or were disregarded.

Powers was downed May 1 while flying a reconnaissance flight in a U2 jet plane over Soviet territory. The incident has caused an international furor.

"Somebody sold him out," the News quoted a top official in Washington. "And we want him. Obviously, the Soviet agents have penetrated our operations on the ground." The manhunt is going on in Turkey and the Middle East, said the News.

Powers, the article continued, was on the Peshawar, Pakistan-Norway route, which has been flown so often it is called a milk run in aviation circles.

The News said the chief target was the comparatively new Soviet rocket and missile center at Tyura Tain, south of Arsk near the Ural Sea.

U.S. intelligence agencies have received reports that the Soviets were going to make a surprise space shot either in connection with next week's summit meeting in Paris or with President Eisenhower's trip, the story said.

They discussed border differences.

Says Drugs Inspection Inadequate

WASHINGTON (AP) — An official of the agency which sets quality standards for drugs testified today federal inspection is so inadequate that it is unsafe to prescribe medicines without knowing the manufacturer is reliable.

The testimony was given by Dr. Lloyd C. Miller, revision director for Pharmacopoeia of the United States (USP), a private agency which sets the standards the federal government tries to enforce by law for purity, quality and potency of drugs.

The Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, before which Miller spoke, has heard testimony that welfare departments in some states refuse to pay for medicines prescribed by trade names, if a suitable substitute medicine may be prescribed by its medical or generic name.

Dr. Thomas D. Rowe, dean of the University of Michigan College of Pharmacy, testified Thursday night that less than one per cent of all prescription drugs actually are inspected by the Food and Drug Administration now.

Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich), the subcommittee's acting chairman, asked Miller to state whether a requirement for generic name prescription is "safe or unsafe, desirable or undesirable—the welfare patient can't conduct tests for himself."

"My opinion, sir," Miller replied "is that it is unsafe because there is not sufficient policing to insure that our standards are met."

No Time to Censure, Says Adlai

CHICAGO (AP) — Although branding the spy plane incident a blunder by the Eisenhower administration, Adlai E. Stevenson has declared that this is no time for partisan censure.

"This summit meeting is too fateful for any American to risk making the President's task even more difficult," he said Thursday night.

Stevenson, who urged Americans to pray for the success of the President's mission to Paris next week, said the downing of a U2 plane over the Soviet Union has caused "a drop in America's reputation around the world."

The temperature has fallen sharply at the summit," he declared, adding that he hoped the incident will not lead the Soviets to "really question our good faith in seeking a way to peace."

Stevenson, defeated Democratic presidential candidate in 1952 and 1956, spoke before a session of the Conference of World Tension at the University of Chicago. Delegates from over the world are meeting there to discuss ways of easing world tension.

While backing the President on the necessity for gathering intelligence — that was the mission of the plane downed May 1 — Stevenson said:

"But our timing, our words, our management must and will be sharply questioned.

"In short, our government blundered and admitted it. And the blunder has made the President's task at the summit meeting more difficult. Changes must and will be made."

Referring to Premier Nikita Khrushchev, Stevenson said:

Man Sentenced to Two Years

Mike Pierce, charged with obtaining money under false pretense, was found guilty by a Hempstead Circuit Court jury and sentenced to two years in the Arkansas State Penitentiary.

Official of Union Jailed and Fined

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maurice A. Hutchison, president of the Carpenters Union, was sentenced Friday to six months in jail and fined $500 for refusing to answer questions before the Senate subcommittee.

The sentence was pronounced by U.S. Dist. Judge James W. Morris, who convicted Hutchison April 11 after a nonjury trial.

Hutchison, 63, president of the big Carpenters Union since 1952 when he succeeded his late father William L. (Big Bill) Hutchison, was allowed to remain free on $1,000 bond pending outcome of an appeal.

Hutchison contended the 18 questions he refused to answer related solely to personal matters not within the scope of the committee's authority, or that they might aid in the prosecution of a criminal case against him in Indiana.

Judge Morris held that the only proper way in which Hutchison could have avoided answering the questions would have been to invoke the Fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination.

The questions he refused to answer dealt for the most part with the use of union funds, particularly whether they were used in connection with an effort to prevent his indictment.

Money Included for State Base

WASHINGTON (AP) — The military construction appropriations bill submitted to the House today includes $1,594,000 for construction at the Blytheville, Ark., Air Force Base during the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The measure also includes proposed allotments of $45,600 each for Arkansas National Guard facilities at Sheridan, Dumas, Perryville and Heber Springs and $87,000 for a Naval Reserve unit at Fayetteville.

The bill is separate from the military construction authorization measure which passed the House March 9 and now is before the Senate. The authorization measure carries no appropriations.

Rifle Bullet Is Fatal to Man

MOUNT PLEASANT, Ark. (AP) — Nine-year-old Glenn Johnson was fatally wounded by a rifle bullet while hunting frogs with two companions near here yesterday.

Izard County Sheriff Boyce Cook said the boy and his cousins, Bennie Johnson, 11, and Phillip Johnson, 8, were at a pond near the cousins' house.

Cook said Bennie Johnson was handing a .22 caliber rifle to Glenn Johnson when the weapon discharged accidentally. A slug hit Glenn in the chest, and he died two hours later at a Melbourne hospital.

Survivors include the parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Johnson, and near Mount Pleasant, four brothers and two sisters.

Plane Deal Hurt Russians in Far East

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — The American spy plane incident may seriously damage Nikita Khrushchev's prestige within the Communist bloc and increase the stature of China's Mao Tse-tung.

"The net result — a bleak one for the West — could be an abandonment of Khrushchev's present 'soft' line in favor of the hard, unyielding policies of Mao, policies reminiscent of those of the late Joseph Stalin.

The shooting down on May 1 of the American plane on a reconnaissance mission deep inside Soviet Territory focuses attention on the 16-month-old controversy between Mao and Khrushchev over the possibilities of negotiation through the United States.

Khrushchev, who made a historic, 13-day visit to the U.S. last September, once described President Eisenhower as a man of peace. He has made clear that he believes a rapprochement is not only possible but necessary.

In a later visit to Peking, he pointedly told his Chinese hosts war had to be abandoned as a means of settling international disputes.

But Mao's reaction was a cold one. Instead of agreeing, his chief lieutenants increased their attacks on the United States, describing it as the source of "aggressive imperialism" which had to be resisted to the death.

Until the plane intrusion, Khrushchev's policy appeared to dominate the thinking of the Communist camp. And, because Khrushchev is the nominal leader of world communism, Mao had to pay lip service to Khrushchev's desires for an end to the cold war.

The plane incident has given the Chinese leader a chance to tell his opposite number in the Kremlin — for whom he is said to feel a certain amount of contempt — "I told you so."

The intensity of Chinese new attacks on the United States, by indirect action on Khrushchev, suggests Mao may be preparing for a secret showdown with his Soviet partner.

Mao has repeatedly made it plain he has little faith in the usefulness of the coming summit conference. He has said that the attitude of the West towards Germany and general disarmament foredoomed it to failure.

Semi-Invalid Man Kills Invalid Wife

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Steffen Meyer, 62, a semi-invalid who is unemployed, shot and killed his wife, Anna, 67, as she sat in her wheelchair Thursday night, police said. Then he tried to kill himself.

Meyer was booked on suspicion of homicide. Police said Meyer told them he was despondent about his poor health and his wife's illness. She was an invalid.

He said he told his wife: "Mama, I think I'm going to kill you and then myself."

"Don't do it, Papa," he said she replied. "I'm not ready to die yet."

But, Meyer said, he told his wife, "Turn your head, Mama," and then fired a bullet into her head.

Meyer said he tried to kill himself but the gun failed to fire. Police said that an examination at City Hospital showed a bullet grazed the top of Meyer's head.

Ike to Leave For Summit Meet Today

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower leaves for the summit meeting Saturday night in an atmosphere of some hope but small expectation that the East-West chiefs of state will accomplish much.

The air was blue with diplomatic protests touched off by the case of the American spy plane downed deep inside Russia.

Eisenhower canceled, without explanation, a farewell statement he had planned to make before setting out for Paris for his long-awaited meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and France's President Charles de Gaulle.

The President planned to put in some last-minute work Saturday at his office. He had no announced appointments.

He was scheduled to take off from nearby Andrews Air Force Base at 7:45 p.m. EDT Saturday night on an 8½-hour jet trip via Newfoundland. His Paris arrival time: 9:30 a.m. Paris time Sunday.

After a final pre-summit huddle with the western chiefs Sunday, he takes his seat at the summit talks starting Monday.

Associate White House press secretary Anne Whelan said she knew of no plan for Eisenhower to meet privately with Khrushchev soon after he gets to the French capital. Khrushchev was scheduled to arrive there Saturday.

Prospects for summit progress staggered under the impact of the spy plane case and Khrushchev's sledgehammer exploitation of it.

Washington was in trouble with its allies, too, over the May 1 spy flight and the announced U.S. policy of aerial surveys over Russia as a defense against surprise attack.

One of a flurry of formal diplomatic protests Friday was aimed at Washington from Norway. Oslo backed Khrushchev's claim that the U2 spy craft had been destined to land at Norway's Bodo field after crossing Russia.

U.S. officials studied the Norwegian note in silence, more in sorrow than in anger. It was easy to understand the position of Norway, under the nose of Russian missiles. She has maintained some neutrality while being a NATO partner and by Washington account — was not told the plane was headed her way.

Pakistan's President said his government was investigating whether the plane look off from there, as Khrushchev claims. The United States has kept mum on the U2's flight plan.

Moscow fired official protests at Norway, Pakistan and at Turkey, where the U2 was originally based. The notes to Pakistan and Turkey were similar.

Anti-U. S. Rally Put on by Cubans

By RICHARD VALERIANI

HAVANA (AP) — Shouts of "Get out! Get out!" greeted every mention of U. S. Ambassador Philip Bonsal at a hysterical five-hour anti-American rally at Havana University that carried into the early hours today.

More than 15,000 students, workers and civilian militiamen were whipped into a frenzy by student and union leaders ranting against "Yankee imperialism" and charging repeatedly that the United States is preparing an invasion of Cuba.

Havana seethed with anti-Americanism. Maj. Orlando Cubelas, head of the University Student Federation, called the rally to muster support for his charge that the United States plans "direct aggression" against the island republic.

He again cited as proof signs the U. S. Embassy has prepared for posting on U. S.-owned buildings in the event of trouble. The embassy has explained that the notices are routine preparedness carried out by U. S. embassies all over the world.

Another student leader, Maj. Angel Quevedo, roused the throng of students, militiamen and workers to cheers with the assertion: "If the embassy denies that the U. S. government is criminally preparing to wage war in our country, then they will have to tell 9-year-old girl companion but not charged formally for the latter."

He was captured last Oct. 22 in Beville, Tex., after a police hunt in Arkansas and Mississippi to make war."

Visit to Middlebrooks Home at Columbus to View Acres of Iris Is Breathtaking

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Whether it is animal, vegetable, or mineral, something exceptionally beautiful always attracts large groups of people. The hundreds who have found their way to the home of F. O. Middlebrooks in Columbus during the past few weeks have had a principal purpose — to see his many, beautiful varieties of irises.

They are not confined to one particular area, but, rather, are scattered throughout the landscaping of the two-acre plot of ground on which his home is centered. The curving driveway is lined with many lovely examples of this perennial plant with handsome flowers and sword-shaped leaves.

His hobby has simply grown as a result of his love of flowers. In fact, the iris is his wife's preference in flowers, while the day lily is his own choice. He laughed and added, "You know, it takes less care to raise day lilies."

Despite what he says, Mr. Middlebrooks has quite a lot to do with raising the lovely lilies which he has in every color except black. His thousands of rhizomes represent more than 160 varieties. Mask Ball, a white and blue iris, and Elmore, a variety that grows to nine or ten inches in diameter, are probably two of his most unusual varieties.

However, he says he prefers types of pink irises. Like Mrs. Middlebrooks, I prefer the blue ones, and at the Middlebrooks home there is a blue iris that is the bluest this reporter has ever seen. But I mentioned day lilies earlier. Well, more than 400 can be found at the Middlebrooks home, but their primary interest in flowers is still the iris.

Middlebrooks irises bloom over a period of three months as they have three kinds — dwarf, intermediate, and bearded. The dwarf irises sometimes bloom before the quills freezing, and the bearded varieties have been at their height of beauty during the past week.

Raising these flowers has been a hobby with the Middlebrooks couple for about ten years. Every three years they dig up the bulbs and reset them. The two chief problems which have confronted these gardeners have been time and water. Their chief sources of information have been books, catalogues and good old "trial and error."

So far, they haven't gone into raising these flowers on a large, commercial scale, but when Mrs. Middlebrooks retires from teaching school in the near future and Mr. Middlebrooks retires from operating a store at Columbus in a few years, they may enlarge on their hobby and make it a business.

In Greek mythology Iris was a messenger of the gods. No wonder a flower of the same name seems to symbolize what Longfellow said about May. "The word May is a perfumed word. It is an illuminated initial. It means youth, love, song."

Trench Collapses, Buries 4 Laborers

MEMPHIS (AP) — The sides of a 30-foot-deep trench collapsed with a thunderous roar today, burying four laborers under tons of dirt and rubble.

Rescue workers reached two of the trapped men about an hour after the Friday 11th cave-in. Sheriff's deputies said one of them was still breathing.

The laborers, all Negroes, were working at the bottom of the deep trench when the walls collapsed. They were among 15 employed on a sewer line project for the suburban Whitehaven utility district.

The G & Z Contracting Co., Inc., for whom the men worked, identified them as: Joseph Harris, 36, Ernest Moore, 38, Woodrow Taylor, 40, and John Springfield, 37. All are from Memphis.

Rescue operations were being carried out by Shelby County Sheriff M. A. Hinds and eight deputies. They directed a crew of hand laborers.

Pleads Guilty on Assault Charge

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Ira Wilson Williams, 37, pleaded guilty today to a charge of assault with intent to rape a 15-year-old North Little Rock girl today. He was sentenced to 2½ years in prison.

Williams was charged with attacking the girl last September, and was accused of molesting a 9-year-old girl companion but not charged formally for the latter.

He was captured last Oct. 22 in Beville, Tex., after a police hunt in Arkansas and Mississippi to make war."

Justice Dept. Is Aware of Beating

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Justice Department spokesman said today the department "is aware" of a Negro's complaint that he was beaten after he took two Negro children to a white school near Pine Bluff, Ark., in an effort to have them registered.

But the spokesman said the department has no other comment to make on the matter. He declined to say whether the matter is being investigated.

Ivey Anderson has complained that he was beaten May 5 after leaving the Dollarway school.

The time of the alleged incident was the day before the new Civil Rights Act of 1960 became effective and thus would not be covered by any provisions of the new law.

Defense Told to Reopprise Construction

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee told the Defense Department today to reopprise its construction program in the light of the space age and to get rid of "string savers" and "empire builders."

Its criticism of department construction plans was contained in a report approving $885,168,000 in new funds for military construction projects in the United States and overseas. This is $302,832,000 less than President Eisenhower requested.

"All too frequently," the committee said, "the services find themselves in the position of building facilities which at best are only partly utilized or construction bases in support of so-called weapons of the future which never materialize into operational equipment."

The committee also fussed at the department for its family housing program and said it should give greater consideration to the availability of private housing and other government housing programs.

The appropriations group said it was deeply concerned over overseas military housing projects and noted the existence abroad of fairly new housing units which are not being used.

The committee deplored what it called a lack of coordination among the services over entrenchment or inactivation of facilities.

It called for action "to eliminate the 'string savers' and 'empire builders' who insist on holding each piece of property whether or not there is a valid requirement and blithely request new facilities with little or no consideration given to those available in their own or other military services."

Says Reds Fly Over U. S. Too

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — "Of course" the Soviets are sending spy flights over United States territory, Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby (Ret.) said Thursday night.

Willoughby was intelligence chief on the staff of Gen. Douglas MacArthur from 1941 to 1951. He now is military editor of American Mercury magazine and a consultant to the House Un-American Activities Committee.

"Vapor trails have been picked up over Alaska time and again," he said in an interview, intimating these trails are from Soviet planes.

"But this isn't the point. Russia does not have to fly over us. It has the American Communist party at its beck and call. They pick up all the information Russia wants."

Driving Champs to Compete

Entrants in the state contest qualified by winning a local safe driving competition.

The state contests starts with a written test at 9 a.m. The driving portion begins at 10 a.m. and lasts all day.

The Arkansas champion will be named at an awards banquet tomorrow night. The winner will represent Arkansas in the national Teen-Age Road-E-O in Washington Aug. 2-11.

Sponsors of the contest is the Arkansas State Junior Chamber of Commerce.

City of Hope Loses 225 in Past 10 Years

According to the census count at the present, the population of Hope is 6,390 according to figures released by Mrs. Ruby G. Bousley, district census supervisor.

This compares with a 1950 census of 6,605, a loss of 225 persons during the past 10 years.

Although a significant revision is unlikely, minor revision may occur after a more careful examination of returns.

No figures on the population of the county were available at this time.

U. S. Fails to Orbit Big Balloon

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The United States tried but apparently failed today in an effort to sail a giant balloon satellite into orbit around the earth as a reflector for long-range radio waves.

The experiment, called Project Beho, will be tried again later this year. Its ultimate aim is a procession of 100-foot aluminum-coated plastic spheres circling the planet as dependable backboards for worldwide communication signals.

Today's balloon, collapsed inside a 26½-inch magnesium ball, got off to an apparently good start at 4:16 a.m. from this missile test station on the nose of a towering Thor-Delta rocket. The aim was to eject the balloon and inflate it at orbit level.

Ground observers saw the second stage rocket take over in the sky some three minutes later but contact was soon lost.

Scientists at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington said there was a slim chance the payload had gone into an orbit different from the planned path.

But a spokesman said the most likely thing was that the third stage, with the payload still attached, fell back to earth. There were no reliable signals even to show that the second stage was detached.

NASA agency officials said there will be another trial before the end of the year.

An official said 12 rockets of the type used today are on order for various experiments this year. The list includes launching of more inflatable spheres and of vehicles intended to generate power in space from solar rays.

DOROTHY DIX

For and Against

By DOROTHY DIX

In a recent column I published a letter from D.D. asking how she could best help her teenage daughter adjust to life after confinement in a mental hospital. L.M. sends the following fine response:

Dear Dorothy: I have just finished reading D.D.'s letter requesting guidance for her teenage daughter after she's spent some time in a state institution.

I had that same harrowing experience of re-entering society after confinement at a State Hospital. My sympathy goes out to the family and, most of all, the daughter. I would like them to know that a complete recovery is possible and that at the present time I hold a responsible secretarial position and have no nervous symptoms at all. During the first year home I was assigned to an excellent psychiatric social worker from the state department of mental hygiene.

"Recovery, Inc." 116 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago 3, Ill., has some helpful literature on readjustment on the "outside." This society is composed wholly of ex-mental patients.

I judge myself, and friends have also told me, to be a far healthier person now than I was before my breakdown, and it turned out to be a blessing, in disguise although it was ghastly at the time. Best of luck to D.D. and her daughter.

Here's a teen-ager who takes me to task for my stand on going steady. My advice to a 15-year-old girl evoked this letter:

Dear Dorothy Dix: I read your column regularly and enjoy it very much. Usually I agree with you but I entirely disagree with the 15-year-old girl who complains that she isn't allowed to date.

I am 15 years old and have been dating for the past four years. In grades 7 and 8 I was allowed to stay out one night a week until 10:30 and a boy usually walked me home. In grade 9 I dated boys but couldn't go out in cars.

I adore both my parents and get along with them really well. This year I am in grade 10 with a 78 percent average. I can go out both Friday and Saturday nights in cars and to an hour sitting to the date 11 o'clock for shows and one for dances.

I think that this is a perfect way for an average modern teenager to grow up and gain responsibility. Making a girl stay home is only asking for trouble.

Apologies of the many queries about divorce received by this column, a "happy bridegroom of 36 years" writes:

Dear Dorothy Dix:

How can any couple who have been married 15 or 20 years or longer, even momentarily consider divorce? How a couple who had been all to each other can suddenly become an anathema, is a riddle whose solution defies experts. For 37 years I have been the blissful husband of one of the sweetest angels God ever created — a model housekeeper, a marvelous cook, a gracious hostess and a royal entertainer. So many marriages flounder on the reef of discord because the courtship technique is discarded almost as soon as the I-do's are pronounced. Were a little seamanship employed, many marriages could be maneuvered off the reefs into the channel of felicity.

After supper she went home early over Pam's protests. Tomorrow was Mark's birthday.

She had thought of it this morning when she woke, not having dreamed of him nor, as far as she knew, having dreamed at all, yet waking tired, neurotic, as Steve had said in effect, "I'm not working that hard, she'd thought; and then: It's Saturday and tomorrow is Mark's birthday.

Mark had always insisted upon two birthday parties as he was born at three minutes after midnight. So the evening before he and Rose had their own celebration and then the evening of the day proper, with other people, and later with the children, who made an occasion of it.

She remembered many birthdays; the surprises which weren't always like the first cake she'd baked for him. It had fallen flat upon its heavy little face and he had taken her in his arms and said, "It's terrible and I love it. I love you."

Once he had said, "We should have been born in the same year, on the same day."

"Why? I like your being older."

"Oh, because I feel we should have shared the exact moment. It seems strange to think that I was in the world for a few years before you were; strangers still that after you made your entry I didn't know that somewhere in the town next door there was a hideous shrieking infant."

Lying back in the metal chair with the arched dark sky, now strung with silver, above her, she began quietly to cry. She did not now very often and this was not painful.

Loneliness came and sat beside her for the coming year. After singing, he gave the benediction.

Melrose HD Club Meets

The Melrose Home Demonstration Club met May 10 in the home of Mrs. A. C. Kirby. The house was called to order by the president, Gladys Roberts. The devotionals given by the hostess, was taken from Usams. Prayer was offered by Gladys Roberts. The minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. Virgie Hucksabee. Roll call was answered by "An easy meal to prepare."

Mrs. A. C. Kirby gave a report on Home management. Mrs. S. Willis gave a demonstration on food for the freezer. Mrs. Hucksabee gave a health report.

Refreshments were enjoyed during the social hour. The surprise package was won by Mrs. A. C. Kirby.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Smith of Texarkana announce the arrival of their second daughter on Thursday afternoon, May 12. She weighed 9 lbs., 12 ozs. and has been named Penny Lou. Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Smith are the paternal grandparents, and Mr. and Mrs. Corbin Jackson of Louisville are the maternal grandparents.

her and said, with compassion: I shall never leave you. But, I can become your friend.

She thought after a while: Nothing can hurt me any more. She had reached a safe place in the tunnel. She could be hurt for her children, she could—and doubtless would—suffer with them, but not for herself. This was the point of no return; she need never retrace her steps to the tunnel entrance.

She thought back over the past months. In the Admitting Office she had learned to suffer with and for people. And before that through Pam, Ann Bailey and Karen. She was still learning; Lou and Mark's father—she had persuaded herself that she would take the last days of her vacation and fly down—and when the time came, she would suffer through Gwen.

She was sleepy when she went to bed, turned off her lamp and looked at the clock. It was midnight. She thought: In three minutes Mark's birthday. I'm a young woman, I can live 20 years, even 30 or more. How shall I manage?

There would be much with which she must contend; most of her problems would concern the children; others, practicalities like a house, its upkeep, repairs, taxes and mounting costs. And there would be some outside her immediate family.

Physical things must concern her, too; unforeseen illnesses, the complete conquering of her own needs and the inevitable onset, and course of the menopausal syndrome. She had talked with Steve about this, and with his help could meet it.

This was the present which contains the future. But the future was not frightening, except in the aspects of its endurance; she simply knew there would be conflicts, some apparent before they occurred, others not.

She was almost asleep when she heard something in the quiet room, the windows open to the stirring air. She heard the sound of coins dropping on wood. Unmistakable, that light metallic sound. She had heard it almost every night for 20 years.

She asked, "Mark?" . . . but now she was asleep.

She woke on Sunday just before dawn. She woke, wide, all of a piece, and thought: I can't go back to sleep. She passed her dressing table on her way to shower, looked at the flowers in the gray light, and said, "Happy birthday, darling."

When she came back into the room, she passed Mark's dresser and looked down at the coins which lay there: a dime, two quarters, pennies. She didn't remember putting them there last night. She must have brought her handbag upstairs and turned out the cold purse.

Then she remembered . . . the dream . . . just as she slid into sleep for a little while she stood quietly, her hand on the polished

Talking Woman Wants Job Back

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A woman recreation leader who was fired for her "everlasting talking" among other things, is asking the City County Personnel Board to reinstate her.

The board opened a hearing Thursday on the appeal of Miss Evelyn Cooner, 37, but recessed it until next week without announcing a decision.

Miss Cooner was dismissed April 16 from her job as director of social programs at the Bell-rath Community Center.

Supt. T. A. Belser of the Parks and Recreation Department said he based his dismissal on a letter from George F. Jones, director of the center, complaining that Miss Cooner's "everlasting talking takes up most of her working time" and prevents her from "doing any tangible work."

Jones also said she was late to work, failed to maintain discipline among children and failed to carry out orders.

Several mothers who testified in Miss Cooner's behalf at the hearing used such adjectives as "wonderful" and "inspiring" to describe her work.

SW Officials in Conference Meet

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Southwest Conference athletic directors and head football coaches continue today a series of spring meetings expected to be on the same side.

President Silent Before Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower changed his mind today and decided against making a departure statement before taking off Saturday for the summit conference in Paris.

President Silent Before Meeting

The White House has no explanation. Assistant press secretary Anne Wheaton previously had said Eisenhower expected to tape, for radio and TV use at the time of his departure, a brief statement about the summit session.

President Silent Before Meeting

The final sessions are slated to end tomorrow in time for coaches and faculty men to attend the afternoon's track finals.

President Silent Before Meeting

The conference track preliminaries in most events get under way today with finals in the javelin and discus on tap. The meet, shaping up as a two-way battle between Texas and Baylor, could go down to the final event before

Opponents in Assault on Governor

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gov. Orval E. Faubus' opponents in the governor's race continued their verbal assault on his administration and bid for a fourth term yesterday. The governor continued to ignore them.

Opponents in Assault on Governor

Faubus made two speeches in Fayetteville last night without referring to his campaign or his four opponents.

Opponents in Assault on Governor

Two of the other candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor, Joe C. Hardin and H. E. Williams, were busy with speeches in central Arkansas.

Opponents in Assault on Governor

Another, Hal Millsap, said he would begin his campaign next Monday at Harrison, and that he would tour the state in a bus, "talking to people."

Opponents in Assault on Governor

The fourth candidate, Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett, was silent.

Opponents in Assault on Governor

Hardin yesterday blasted a proposed constitutional amendment that would provide for local option abolition of public schools as an anti-integration measure.

Opponents in Assault on Governor

Williams made a non-political speech to the Ola High School graduating class. He also released a statement at Little Rock, rapping Faubus for keeping a personal "bodyguard" — a state trooper.

Opponents in Assault on Governor

Hardin was in Pine Bluff, continuing his practice of speaking to small groups in homes of his supporters.

Opponents in Assault on Governor

Faubus spoke at a dinner for the Washington County Young Democrats Club in Fayetteville. Then he moved across town to University of Arkansas law school auditorium, where he addressed about 150 persons at a rally sponsored by the University Young Democrats Club.

Opponents in Assault on Governor

Between speeches, the newly-formed University Hardin for Governor Club held a spirited rally at the university. Twenty-eight members heard Fred Livingston of Batesville speak in Hardin's behalf.

Opponents in Assault on Governor

Gov. Faubus told the law school crowd, which was composed mostly of students, that he opposes a third party movement but would yield to the will of the people if they strongly supported one.

Opponents in Assault on Governor

Faubus also helped dedicate a new Norge plant yesterday at Fort Smith.

Opponents in Assault on Governor

Livingston told students at the Fayetteville Hardin rally that Hardin-for-governor clubs would be organized in every county.

Opponents in Assault on Governor

In his Pine Bluff talks, Hardin lashed at what he called "political interference" at the University of Arkansas Medical Center in Little Rock, saying the Legislature had refused to give it adequate financial support.

Opponents in Assault on Governor

He especially rapped Perry Rep. Paul Van Dalsen, chairman of the Arkansas Legislative Council.

Opponents in Assault on Governor

On the subject of a fourth term for Faubus, Hardin said "Two terms are enough and three are too many."

Opponents in Assault on Governor

Asked for his opinion on alleged gambling in Hot Springs, Hardin said it was a matter for local people to handle. "I don't want to drive it underground," he added. "If you are going to have it, have it legal."

BEGINNERS' RULES ARE FOR KIDS AND ADULTS

Youngsters like to run a boat alone, but when is it safe to let them?

AMERICA AFLOAT

First the child must learn the basic rules of good boating and good judgment — then you can decide.

AMERICA AFLOAT

Survey's show children often receive more careful training in seamanship than older boatmen who start as adults. As a result, they are frequently better swimmers and have fewer accidents, though they often show weakness in applying common sense.

AMERICA AFLOAT

Young or old, the new boatman should not be frightened by the water, but should keep a healthy respect for it.

AMERICA AFLOAT

Learning to swim is the first step for children. This can help them overcome any special fears. Until a child reaches school age at least, however, he should wear a life jacket when out in a boat—even if he is a good swimmer.

AMERICA AFLOAT

While moving around on deck, a youngster could slip and fall overboard.

AMERICA AFLOAT

For adult guests who hesitate to wear a life jacket, there are now available small clip-on packages which inflate when they are squeezed and expand into sturdy flotation bags.

AMERICA AFLOAT

The child should learn to keep his weight low in the boat. Standing and moving can unbalance a hull and cause it to tip.

AMERICA AFLOAT

Most children start by handling small boats. These are especially likely to tip over. By always stepping down to the center of the boat, and staying seated amidships while it is underway, the young skipper learns an important lesson.

die to live

The Book says this earthy body must die IF it is to live. How cheerfully the farmer plants his corn! He knows it must die, but he also knows that 'death' is part of the process of life. Immediately after the seed is buried in mother earth, all the ministries of God are set in motion to work a miracle. For it is said, that to make one little yellow grain, requires the sunshine and the rain, the hoarded riches of the sod — and God. It is all the miracle of life. The hull rots and falls away much like the sins of a man being reborn of God. It is the Lord's way of carrying on His creative process to multiply the sustenance of both man and beast. Then thank God for life that is born of death. The fruit of summer and of autumn waits upon this death-to-life miracle of a good God, as a reborn soul waits to be used of his Lord. Then, there is no death... what seems so is transition.

Come with me to church this week.
